The orchestra from the Rebekah's Home for Children at Gilroy will give their annual concert in the McKinley School auditorium on Friday evening, April 25. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

JUNIOR MUSIC PUPILS GIVE PUBLIC RECITAL

The junior pupils of Mrs. Bostwick Barnes gave a piano recital Thursday to invited guests.
Those who took part were Johnnie Dussel, Shirley Doyne, Robert Hess, Elizabeth Ann McCrea, Beatrice Hess, Gertrude Tiedeman, Wilma Pfafflin, Adrian Squires, Carol Woodhams, Lorain Smith and Charlon Lothrop from an older group who played a Scotch dance by Beethoven and a tone poem by Carroll.
Refreshments were served following the recital.

PLANS CHANGED FOR EASTER BREAKFAST

The breakfast which was to have been arranged by all Redwood City service clubs, to follow the Easter morning sunrise service, will not be held. A change in the plans was made when it was found that the interclub meeting would interfere with the plans by some of the local churches, which will have breakfasts after services, and also because so many members of all the clubs will be out of town on Easter Sunday.
An interclub breakfast will be planned for some future Sunday, it was stated this week.

Bids Asked For Pedro Mountain Road Contract

New Highway Will Be Completed By Winter

There was rejoicing on the coast-side of San Mateo county this week with the announcement that contracts will be let this summer for the construction of the long-desired Pedro Mountain road to connect the coast-side section with San Francisco. The announcement followed a meeting in San Francisco Tuesday of the directors of Joint Highway District No. 9. The directors include representatives of San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Cruz counties.
At this meeting it was agreed to call for bids on this unit of the work to be opened on May 20. Following this contracts will be let, and it is stated, the road will be completed before next winter.

The cut-off around Pedro mountain is the most important and most expensive link in the proposed coast highway from San Francisco to Santa Cruz which is to cost a total of $5,500,000. Its construction will eliminate the dangerous Pedro grade, a long steep climb with many sharp curves and a narrow road. Opening of the cut-off will bring Halfmoon Bay 3 miles nearer San Francisco. It will prove a boon to ranchers on the coast as it will bring the San Francisco market closer and more accessible.

Residents of Halfmoon Bay were planning a celebration this summer when the first spade is turned on the new road. This is expected to be in the latter part of May or the first week in June. A barbecue and public gathering to which all of San Mateo county will be invited is being planned. It is believed that the new link, which will follow the old roadbed of the Ocean Shore railway around the point, will be opened in September or October.

WORM PEST CONTROLLED WITH SPRAY

Horticultural Officer Advises Spray For Oak Moths

The oak trees of this section are due for another serious attack of pests, according to A. W. Tate, San Mateo county horticultural commissioner. The oaks, Tate says, are already being attacked by the oak moth, which breeds in great numbers here, and also by the tent caterpillar. Both of these pests are still in the larval stage, and can easily be controlled by spraying.
Spraying to control both types of moth, must be done early, and a stomach poison should be used. Contact sprays will not be successful. The best type of solution to use is arsenate of lead. This poisons the leaves of the oak and kills the larvae which feed upon them.
Without spraying for the control of these pests the trees become defoliated by them within a few weeks after they make their appearance, and allowing the larvae to develop assures an abundant supply of eggs and of pests next season.

"THE HOUSE OF MYSTERY" ALUMNI PLAY, APRIL 25

Nightly rehearsals are being held this week and will continue next week for "The House of Mystery," the 3-act comedy to be staged in the Sequoia High School Auditorium Friday evening, April 25, by the Sequoia Alumni Association. A strong cast has been selected for the play, which is said to abound in startling surprises and is rich in fun from start to finish.
Tickets are 50 cents and selling rapidly, according to Truman Letts, president of the Alumni Association. All seats are reserved and tickets may be secured at the high school or at Ryan's Drug Store on Broadway.

Robert Barnes, who is attending the College of the Pacific in Stockton, spent the Easter vacation with his mother, Mrs. Bostwick Barnes at her home on Brewster street.

Traffic Light Broken Off By Plunging Car

After Collision, Car Hits Signal and Electroliner

Two cars staged a collision at the corner of Broadway and the State highway yesterday, and before they were through with the performance, almost devastated the corner. The beginning of the affair, according to the investigating officer, was when a car driven by William J. Hayes, 415 Spruce street, San Francisco, was struck in the rear by one driven by T. J. Johnson, San Gregorio.

The two cars were traveling south on the El Camino Real, the report states, when Johnson attempted to make a left hand turn into Broadway. His car struck that of Hayes, throwing the latter out of control. Hayes' car plunged across the street, crashed into the traffic signal, the "101 Highway" sign, an electroliner, and finally stopped against an electric pole. The traffic control signal, the electroliner and the highway sign were all demolished. Both cars were damaged.

In Johnson's car were Mrs. Viola Mallet of San Francisco, and her daughter. Neither they nor the drivers were injured.

U. S. CENSUS WILL BE COMPLETE TODAY

Volunteers Making Best of Three Extra Days Allowed to Finish Count In Redwood City

Every endeavor is being made to list every resident in Redwood City in the United States census. So far, a great many remain to be listed by the enumerators. The census began on April 2, with two weeks allowed for the registration of all residents.

On Tuesday evening, two weeks after the census began, a meeting of all enumerators was called by Census Supervisor W. C. Bailey. At this meeting it appeared that fully one-quarter of the residents of the city have not yet been listed for the census, in spite of the fact that the enumerators have been working Sundays and well into the nights with their task of enumeration.

It is very important that every possible resident be listed in this census, and for this reason an extension of three days was granted by those in charge of the census. In order that the work may be completed in these three additional days, the chamber of commerce is assisting the enumerators by having a committee of members canvass the town and locate all residents who have not yet been listed. It is expected that between three and four thousand more names may be listed in Redwood City during these additional days.

The volunteer workers who have so far offered their services to assist in securing a complete enumeration of all the people in Redwood City and who are now calling at the homes, offices, stores and factories, include the directors of the chamber of commerce; C. D. Jessup; the following from the Redwood City Kiwanis Club: Daniel R. Stafford, Thomas Nelson, Rev. C. H. Stevens, Amerigo Rossi, Charles Dimmitt, Carl Mable, W. J. Dussel, Daniel F. Flynn, Phil Brand, John W. Poole, J. D. Hedge, Carl Wagner, Henry Beeger, Carl Muller, Sam Winkler, and James P. Hearne.

The chamber of commerce has had 500 cards printed which with the co-operation of Postmaster Carl Mable will be delivered today and tomorrow to every home within the city. The cards ask the pertinent questions: Have you been enumerated? Is there any member of your family who has not been enumerated? Do you know of any resident of Redwood City who has not been counted? Is so, give names and addresses below and MAIL NOW. Postmaster Mable advises that the carriers will pick up the cards on the return delivery. No postage is required.

It is felt that with the thorough checking that is being done by the volunteer workers and the mailing of the cards that everybody will have been reached before tonight, which is the closing time of the extension period granted by the government to complete the enumeration in Redwood City.

The big problem here, as elsewhere, according to the six enumerators, has been to find the people home, when the canvassers call. Often an enumerator has had to make calls at a single house five and six times before any results have been obtained, and this naturally has slowed up the canvass considerably. The enumerators have been very faithful and efficient in their work and no blame is being placed on their shoulders on account of the apparent shortage in the totals.

Real Estate Men Will Take State Examination Here

An examination for the benefit of real estate salesmen who desire to secure licenses from the State Real Estate Commission will be held here at 1 o'clock Tuesday, May 6. The examination will be at the city hall. Salesmen now operating under a temporary license must qualify by written examination before the expiration of the six months period for which the temporary license was issued or discontinue the vocation of a real estate salesman.

The salesmen examination consists of twenty-five questions, ten of which are based upon the Real Estate Act as amended at the last session of the Legislature and became effective August 14, 1929.

Fifteen of the twenty-five questions will be selected from a group of eighty-three questions which have been given wide publicity through the newspapers and various other channels.

The purpose of the examinations is to educate those engaged in the real estate vocation and for that reason the Commissioner broadcast the questions as a guide to those preparing for examination.

All those desiring to take the examination should register with Emmet Donnelly, secretary of the Redwood City Real Estate Board, 2090 Broadway, Redwood City.

EXCHANGE CLUB HAS DISTRICT MEETING

The meeting was presided over by District Governor Clark Congdon of Palo Alto, who was introduced by Wilbur Doxsee, president of the Redwood City club. Speakers at the meeting included Ralph Wight, immediate past president of the California Affiliated Exchange Clubs, and M. Smith of Oakland, State secretary of the organization.

S. F. Engineer's Body Found In Woodside Gulch

Scene of Tragedy On Bear Gulch Water Co.'s Land

The body of Charles A. Wagner, 39, structural engineer of San Francisco, was found late Tuesday afternoon by Eastland Britton, superintendent of the Bear Gulch Water Company, in a small canyon on the water company's property at Woodside. The San Francisco man had ended his life by firing a bullet through his head.

Britton notified Sheriff McGrath, who had the body brought to the James Crowe Undertaking parlors here, where an inquest will be held Monday by County Coroner J. C. McGovern.

It is believed that Wagner's suicide was due to heavy financial losses. He leaves a wife, Mrs. May I. Wagner, and three small children. The family home is at 667 Twenty-first avenue, San Francisco. Funeral services will be held in San Francisco.

All Creeds To Join In Sunrise Service Easter Morning

Several thousand persons are expected to attend Redwood City's second Easter Sunrise Services to be held Sunday morning at Emerald Peak cross. The program is in charge of the Ministerial Union and the ministers of the several churches in the city are taking part. The four service clubs are co-operating in the plans for the event and every indication to the services being equally as successful as last year, when the huge cross, said to be the largest of its kind in the world, was dedicated.

Dr. Charles E. Winning, president of the Ministerial Union, will preside at the services, which will start promptly at sunrise, 5:28. Buglers will sound reveille at 5 o'clock in various parts of the city for those who wish to attend the services. The program for the morning was announced yesterday as follows:

All boys and girls having pets or articles of handicraft which they desire to exhibit, are cordially invited to bring the same to the McKinley school on Saturday, April 26.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED QUARTER-TON GOLF MATCH

The champion heavy weight golf two-som has been arranged. Golf fans and other fans will be afforded the one and only quarter-ton golf match Sunday, April 27. This was the announcement made this week by Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe, who has been the promoter of a golf contest between Chief of Police "Mickey" Collins of Redwood City and Sheriff James J. McGrath of San Mateo county.

Sheriff McGrath will uphold the honor of his office, and should he be successful in defeating the genial chief of police, the Redwood City officers will provide a dinner for the sheriff and his deputies. But should the chief win, the officers will be guests of the sheriff's office.

Neither the sheriff nor the chief of police have ever swung a golf club. The match will be for nine holes unless darkness makes a fewer number advisable. The greens (and the roughs) of the Emerald Lake Country Club will be the scene of the contest, which will begin at 1:30, thus allowing at least five hours before darkness.

In order that the match may be strictly legal and equitable, a selected committee of legal talent will be on hand to see the contestants observe all of the Marquess of Queensbury rules. Police Sergeant Stanley Woods will act as second for his chief, and Undersheriff Ed Farrell will serve in like capacity for the sheriff. District Attorney Swart may be called upon to umpire the match, while County Engineer George Kneese will be present with a crew of his most skilled mathematicians to keep the score for both parties.

EMERALD LAKE VOTES TO FORM FIRE DISTRICT

Formation of Territory Into Fire District Carries 82 to 4 at Election Held Wednesday

An election held in the Emerald Lake district Wednesday resulted in the formation of the Emerald Lake fire district. The residents of the district voted to form a district almost unanimously. The results of the election were 82 in favor of the proposition and only 4 votes against it. The polling place was the residence of E. J. Machabee, on Oak Knoll drive. The election was conducted by the following officers: Katherine Maehl, clerk; Rosamond Machabee, inspector; and Howard R. Rorer, judge.

The petition for the formation of the district was presented to the supervisors sometime following the proceedings before the board eliminating the territory from the Woodside Fire District. At the hearing before the board no protests were filed so the formation of the district was practically assured.

The proceedings for the formation of the new district were handled by Attorney Gilbert D. Ferrell.

Many members of the Scottish Rite from here attended the Mainway Thursday services in San Jose. Officers included in the group were: James J. McGrath, Grand Master; and James J. McGrath, Grand Master.

James McCandless, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. McCandless of 520 Hemlock street, was seriously injured when the bicycle he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Harry Chew, proprietor of the New Canton Cafe on Broadway, about 5 o'clock last evening. The accident occurred at the intersection of Jefferson avenue and Webster street.

They Learned to Fly in One Day

A test was made at Roosevelt field, Long Island, to prove that women, none of whom had any previous flying experience, can be taught to fly modern airplanes in one day. Miss Dorothy Galberth, eighteen-year-old college girl of Hollis, Long Island, and Miss Esther Wagner, twenty-four, a stenographer, of Hempstead, Long Island, and Mrs. Helen Gillespie, thirty, a Garden City mother, each started a one-day course in the morning, and before sunset each of them had made a successful solo flight. The photograph shows, left to right, Miss Galberth, Mrs. Gillespie and Miss Wagner.

Sir Thomas Lipton is coming over to try again to capture the America cup, which has been in the possession of the United States ever since 1851, when it was first offered. The photograph shows workmen in the bows of the new Shamrock V, which is being rushed to completion at Gosport, England.

Averill Is Full-Fledged Star

IT IS customary in the game of baseball to make some mental reservations when estimating the worth of a player during and immediately after his first year in the majors. This is because of a boy's know-as-the "second-year jinx"—a boy who has seized many a youngster after a brilliant debut and returned him to the obscurity of the bench or the minors.

In the last three or four years the Indians have been beset by the second-year jinx. In 1926 Emil Levens and Fred Spurgeon were stars, and in 1927 they were useless. In '28 Carl Lind was the sensation of the league and the following season he was a liability to the team.

Which makes it the more remarkable that Earl Averill, who last year shared with Wes Ferrell the title of baseball's most brilliant rookie, should be conceded his place among the established luminaries without regard for the notorious jinx that is supposed to dog the footsteps of young men about to start their second year in the big show.

In other words, it is simply assumed by every one that the second-year jinx will not work on the Duke of Snobomish. He has arrived, and nothing short of a broken leg will keep him from continuing the pace he set last summer.

The reason for this assumption is plain. Averill has what has been called the perfect baseball temperament. He is as utterly incapable of worry as some ball players are of thought, matter, any other jinx.

There is seldom any physical reason for a slump—a period during which a player's fielding, or hitting, or pitching skill deserts him. Usually it is caused by worry. An infielder gets the worst of the breaks for a few days, makes several errors and commences to worry. He loses confidence in himself and often has to be batted before it is restored.

It is the same with a batter who goes hitless for a few days, or a pitcher who loses his control.

But Averill could go to the plate daily for two weeks without making a base hit and return to the bench as smiling and untroubled as if he were knocking holes in the fences. He is thoroughly confident of his ability to hit and mere fact that he is failing to do so doesn't bother him.

Earl Averill.

LARGE TWIRLERS MACK'S WEAKNESS

Veteran Leader Can Never See Small Man on Mound.

Show Connie Mack a big pitcher and Connie will sign him forthwith. That is one of his weaknesses. Last summer Connie heard that there was a big moundsman working at the Benedictine college in Savannah. He stood 6 feet 3 inches, had reached the interesting age of nineteen years and tipped the scales at 185 pounds. The veteran leader of the Mackmen, who never could see a small man working on the hill, did not ask what the big fellow had in the way of pitching stuff. His name is Reginald Baker, they told Connie, and he is this tall and that wide, indicating the physique of the hurler. "Sign him," said Connie, and the other day he joined the world's champions. He is so tall that his size alone impresses the sideliners. He has had a little experience in the pro ranks.

New England light harness fans who like to ship their steeds to the maritime provinces welcome the announcement that a new organization has taken over the charter of the St. John Driving club and will erect a stadium and a modern track at a cost of $100,000. Steps have been taken to include the club in the membership of the Maine and New Brunswick circuit.

Good news for baseball hungry "kids."

As a part of an organized campaign to awaken interest in baseball among boys, all major league clubs may permit them to see four or more games each week free during the 1930 season.

Chicago's major league clubs, the Cubs and White Sox, already have agreed to have four "kids' days" a week and may increase the bargain to every day except Sundays and holidays.

Lefty Grove is this year's highest priced baseball pitcher. He is to receive $25,000 for the year. Dazzy Vance, who received that amount last year, has taken a cut.

Old-time pitching stars didn't fare so well. Walter Johnson got $20,000 at the last. Christy Mathewson drew $12,000. Ed Walsh received $7,500.

Cornell and Yale boxing teams met at Ithaca, N. Y., recently in a seven-bout exhibition program in which no decisions were given, no knockdowns allowed and no team score compiled. It was the first boxing meet ever held under the auspices of the university.

Otto Vogel, former Illinois and Cub outfielder, who is baseball coach at Iowa, apparently retains his old slugging ability.

During "skull practice" of his Hawk-eye nine the other day he asked Elmo Nelson, sophomore catcher: "Nelly, how would you sign a pitcher to pitch to me?"

"High," replied Elmo, "and out of reach."

Do the ball players like Ruth? Yes. Emphatically, yes. The players believe that, in the business of drawing great crowds through the turnstiles, Ruth has helped baseball, and anything, or anyone that helps baseball helps the players, they figure.

Also they believe the Ruth, in his ability to earn a big salary, has indirectly proved an influence in advancing the salaries of the players generally.

Fritz Crysler is the first of the new "life-term" football coaches. Having been appointed to a full professorship at Minnesota it is assumed that he is perfectly safe as long as he cares to remain football coach and athletic director.

He is beyond the reach of the alumni.

Whether it proves a good thing or not probably depends entirely on Crysler's ability to produce. If he produces winning teams it will be a great system.

During his baseball career Roger Bresnahan has been an Oriole, a Giant, a Red Bird, a Cub, a Mud Hen and a Tiger. Beat that and take the animal crackers.

Forest Sackett, a twenty-year-old left-hander who has done well against the Tigers in exhibition games in the South, was purchased by the Evansville club for the highest price ever paid to the Tampa club for a ball player. Sackett will travel north with the Tigers until they reach Evansville, a Detroit farm. If Sackett develops as he promises to, he will eventually become the property of Detroit.

Jack Kearns believes the present crop of heavyweights is the worst since the years immediately following the Johnson-Jeffries fight, when the entire world was busy trying to discover a white hope capable of regaining the championship from the Galveston stevedore.

Kearns thinks Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling are the best of the lot, the others being too small for good heavyweights or else lacking the punching ability needed for a real champion of the class.

The busiest second baseman in the National league last year was Fresno Thompson of the Phils. He had 395 putouts, 512 assists and made 33 errors.

Not since the famous Waners came up to make their marks in a big way have any pair of brothers broken into the baseball show as impressively as the Ferrell brothers—Wesley, pitching ace of the Cleveland Indians last season, and Richard, regarded by Manager Bill Killefer of the Browns as one of the greatest catching prospects to come up in years.

Wesley is the younger of the two, being twenty-two to Dick's twenty-four, but he also is bigger. The pitching half of the brother act is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 195 pounds. Brother Dick weighs 170 and is 5 feet 11.

Proper Way to Pitch to Mr. Tyrus Raymond Cobb

Connie Mack, just before a game with the Detroit Tigers some years ago, was going over the merits and faults of Detroit batters with his pitchers. He talked about Heilmann, Blue, Bassler, Fothergill, Manush and the others, but he filled completely to mention Tyrus Raymond Cobb. Finally his newest rookie hurler could stand it no longer.

"How should we pitch to Cobb, Mr. Mack?" he asked.

Complete silence fell on the dressing room for an instant, then the Athletics' manager said very quietly:

"Just keep the ball out of sight as long as possible."

Cantillon's Sympathetic Streak Shown to Worrier

Several years ago the late Joe Cantillon, then serving in the role of a scout, was in bed trying to sleep when a manager whose team was rapidly sinking through the bottom of the league came to call on him. The manager paced back and forth, worrying about the way his team was going. Cantillon lay where he was, for a while, watching him. Finally he heaved himself out of bed and began to dress.

"Where are you going?" asked the manager.

"I'm going to get up," said Cantillon, "and help you worry."

Rookie Roger Cramer Is Sure of Berth With A's

Connie Mack hasn't spoken officially yet, but he has indicated that Roger Cramer, Manahawkin (N. J.) rookie, may stick with the Athletics. The A's sent him to Martinsburg last season for more experience.

"Cramer likes to play," Mack said, "and he always has a bat in his hand. He can hit, too, and when you have a fellow who can hit there is always room for him. Cramer started as a shortstop. Cy Perkins turned him in to a pitcher and in Martinsburg they made him a third baseman. He looks like an outfielder to me, and a hitter."

Police Dog's Good Work

Because he has Nina, a police dog, Norman E. Hershey, a farmer, at Marietta, Pa., still has a cow named Bess. Early one morning he was aroused by a scratching at the door. Investigating, he found Nina, who had been locked up in the barn the night before. The dog coaxed Hershey toward the barn, where he rescued the cow before she strangled to death in the hayrack. When Bess became trapped, Nina clawed away the latch on the upper half of the barn door, bounded over the lower half, which had resisted her efforts, and was off on her rescue mission.

Strong in Right

By D. E. O'KEEFE

San Mateo's able district attorney Franklin Swart and its efficient sheriff, James J. McGrath, are to be commended by the citizens of the commonwealth for their conduct under the lashing criticism during the past two weeks by a San Francisco daily paper. During this trying time both officials have kept their heads. Their dignity and poise are to be admired. Their good judgment, common sense and fine reasoning under the most stressing circumstances have won for them the approbation and approval of their course by almost every citizen of San Mateo county.

Mr. Swart and Mr. McGrath were not swept off their feet by these uncalculated attacks by a daily in San Francisco that wanted the Tanforan race track closed because of motives best known to the owner of this journal. They were not carried away or forced to do something that was contrary to their best judgment. They used their heads wisely and acted according to their judgment and the law in the case.

Men who have the courage of their convictions, as both these officials have, deserve well at the hands of their constituents. Weaker men would have fallen under the terrible tirade and become the tools of this daily and thus would have made San Mateo county the laughing stock of the entire state.

Deputy Attorney General Harrison was appealed to by this daily, through Governor Young, and this week he declared that he had investigated the so-called options at the Tanforan race track and found that he could not penetrate the legal net thrown about this mode of betting, thus bearing out the contention of District Attorney Swart, who has held all along that he could find no way in which to bring a suit against the promoters of the races and have it stick in court.

Large crowds of well-dressed men and women have been attending the sport of kings during the last thirteen days at Tanforan, all enjoying themselves and all feeling that they were not corrupted by this pastime that has been enjoyed by the best people on earth since the early ages of the world. The meet was a success, backed by the very best people of the state.

Again we congratulate Mr. Swart and Mr. McGrath on their stand in this matter. We commend their courage and strength of mind in upholding their convictions. Their actions have won them the praise of the people of San Mateo county.

Spring Weather and Motorists

These bright grand days are fine for the motoring public to be out and going places. Thousands of cars are on the city streets and over the adjacent highways.

The increase in cars on a highway on Sunday may mean joy and happiness, but if care is not exercised it may mean injury and possible tragedy. The motorist must use care and caution if he is to expect the same from the other drivers.

There are often drivers, who imagine that the state built the highways for their express benefit. They drive along at a terrific rate of speed and use no judgment in the handling of their car. They think they can pass cars anywhere and the more cars that are coming from the other direction seems to be an added incentive for their wild horseplay on wheels.

The overly cautious driver cuts down the speed of progress but any intelligent person can reach the happy medium without trying. It is the foolish driver, who "opens her up" and drives pell mell down the road that causes the grief.

Enjoy the driving, and the weather, or perhaps you won't be here to enjoy them.

How To Sleep

A health writer gives a few sensible rules for sleeping which may be boiled down as follows:

Go to bed expecting to sleep, not to think. Retire at a regular time, thus forming a habit which promotes sleep.

Don't read or study in bed, the mind should stop working.

Face away from the light, especially as summer comes on.

See that the bedroom is cool before turning in.

See that you are covered well enough to keep warm.

To these may be added the following practical suggestion. If you still have difficulty in getting to sleep, take a short walk before going to bed. Sleeplessness is often the result of too little exercise and fresh air.

Must Do Like Mother Hen

When a hen fetches off a batch of chicks she does the best she can to look after them and people who buy day-old chicks, hatched in an incubator, must be prepared to do the same, or lose them.

There has never been a time in Redwood City's history when real estate was a better investment than it is at the present time. It can be bought much cheaper now than it will be later on and the time to buy real estate is when it can be bought at a reasonable price.

In our estimation, there's nothing in the world much more useless than an investigation into what caused the wreck of an airplane which has been almost totally burned and all its passengers killed.

Selecting the Easter Bonnet

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, April 17—(UP)—
The 1930 gubernatorial race is on!

With the formal announcement of Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco as a candidate for the Republican nomination, voters of the state were assured of a three-cornered battle that may prove to be one of the hottest on record.

The other two Republican aspirants are Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles, and Governor C. C. Young, whose formal announcement may be expected almost any time now.

Governor Young cordially welcomed Rolph into the fight, but neatly turned his statement to his own advantage—and incidentally came as near announcing his candidacy as he ever has—when he said:

"In view of the fact that Mayor Rolph has been returned to office for a number of successive terms, he will hardly question the right of a governor to be returned for a single additional term."

Although it is generally accepted that Rolph will campaign on a "tolerance" platform, particularly with reference to prohibition, he studiously avoided making any mention of that subject in his initial statement. In fact, the closest he came to mentioning prohibition was his declaration that he favored conservation of water.

"If elected," he promised, "I will be governor of all the people of California. There are no territorial boundaries within the state. I will practice sound and economic business principles. I will urge a practical and equitable tax plan, a human solution of our crime problems, and a permanent program for conserving our natural resources, especially water."

Political observers are chiefly interested in the wet-and-dry and the geographical angles developing from Rolph's announcement.

Governor Young and Buron Fitts are frankly dry. Rolph is just as frankly wet. He votes wet and he drinks wet. It is understood that his friends are watching the political straws in the light of the recently-started Literary Digest poll, which show California strongly in the modification and repeal column.

Whether this question or the one of geographical location will play the larger part in deciding the outcome is another puzzle. Governor Young, a Northern Californian, has been generous in his recognition of the large populous southern California section in his appointments. He received a heavy vote from San Francisco in the last election. If Rolph's entry serves to divert some of this vote, the natural effect would be to aid Fitts. On the other hand, the Young forces are counting upon a heavy southern California vote which would more than offset any loss due to sectionalism.

Mayor Rolph plans a whirlwind campaign by air, and he will visit as many communities and meet as many voters as possible in the 3½ months remaining before the primary election. His first trip will be with the Redwood Empire party through southern and central California, from April 21 to 27.

"HIGH SOCIETY BLUES" TO SHOW AT SEQUOIA

Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor with some of the other stars in the all-talking picture "High Society Blues." The picture is filled with the same spicy sort of comedy that predominated in "Sunny Side Up," and the picture itself is said by the critics to be far ahead of that production. The Sequoia Theatre plays "High Society Blues" Sunday and Monday, April 20 and 21 for an engagement of only two days. An Easter Egg Hunt will be held on the opening day of the picture. This hunt is sponsored by various merchants in the city and very sincerely backed by the Sequoia Theatre. Eggs with free passes good for the Sunday matinee only, will be planted by the local theatre, and Thos. J. Kane, manager, has postponed the matinee until 2:30 giving ample time for the children and grown ups to attend the show after the Easter egg hunt.

"High Society Blues" is a picture recommended for the whole family, and there will be news reels and comedies on the same bill to round out a very entertaining program. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the Sequoia Theatre, in co-operation with the West Coast Flying School of this city, will give away a free airplane ride with every paid admission to the picture. "Young Eagles," starring America's "boy friend," Charles "Buddy" Rogers, "Young Eagles" is the picture that "Wings" might have been, had the talking picture era been in progress as it is now. In addition to seeing of the biggest pictures of the season you will be given absolutely FREE an aeroplane ride. See a good show and then take an aeroplane ride absolutely free.

Menlo Park

Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W.
Elects Delegates

At a meeting of Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W. last Thursday evening, Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., and Geo. Murray were elected delegates to the annual meeting of the Grand Parlor to be held in May at Merced. Mr. Shortridge has been endorsed by all the parlors of the county for grand trustee and the delegates will go to Merced to do battle for the popular young attorney. Many counties of the state have also endorsed him. It would now appear that Shortridge will have clear sailing at the coming Grand Parlor. Many of Shortridge's friends have started a boom to make him third vice-president at the 1931 meeting of the Grand Parlor. This would be a stepping stone to the grand presidency, a goal which Mr. Shortridge is seeking.

At this meeting the following old members of the parlor were appointed to prepare a program for the celebration on the 38th anniversary of the institution of the parlor. It was organized on September 5, 1892: D. E. O'Keefe, Frank Johnson, Frank Andrews, M. F. X. Kavanaugh and the baby member of the parlor, W. H. Weeden.

City Council In Short Business Session Monday Night

The city council held a short session Monday night. All members were present. All election claims were passed and allowed. City Attorney Whitworth reported that the writ of review was denied by the superior court last Monday. The return was argued and submitted and that on Wednesday the court would give a decision. He would either dismiss the writ or go with the case and take evidence. In the latter event Whitworth anticipated that the attorneys on the other side would ask for time to prepare their case and he would like to hear from the council as to the granting of the continuance. On motion of Walker, seconded by Weeden, Whitworth was permitted to use his own judgment in the matter. The council then adjourned to next Monday evening to canvass the vote of the election.

School Closes for Easter Vacation

Mrs. George Headley Dies In San Francisco

Mrs. George Headley passed away at her home in San Francisco last Sunday. Her husband is widely known here having been born in Menlo Park and grew to manhood here. He married his wife after leaving Menlo Park many years ago so that she was not so well known here. His father, the late William Headley, was a pioneer of this place.

He was a friend of Faxon Atherton. He was a gardener at the Atherton estate for a long period, laying out those vast grounds in the seventies. George Headley left here to become an engineer for the Southern Pacific Company.

Presbyterian Church Dedication Next Sunday

The formal dedication of the new education and social unit of the Presbyterian Church will take place on next Sunday afternoon at 3:30. An interesting program of music and dedication ceremonies has been provided. The Presbytery of San Francisco will be represented by Dr. Clyde Smith, Rev. C. L. Duncan, Dr. W. J. Fisher, Rev. O. L. Linn and others who will assist in the dedication services. The public is invited to this very interesting service.

There will be special Easter services next Sunday at 9:45 by the Sunday School in the new auditorium and a worship service in the Chapel at eleven o'clock. A special part of the Sunday School service will be an Easter pageant, "Victorious Christ," presented by a large number of members of the School in costume. This will present the Easter story in an interesting form.

An invitation is extended to all friends of the church to attend this first service of the Sunday School in the new building.

At the morning service the pastor will conduct a reception service for new members and also a baptismal service. The sermon subject for the morning will be "The Easter Hope." The new commodious kitchen and the new banquet room will be used for the first time for a "Chicken Pie Supper to the public next Wednesday evening, April 23, by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

There will be adequate room and an abundance of good eats and a fine program and a good social time. All friends of the church are cordially invited.

Ninety Percent of Registered Voters Cast Their Ballot Monday

As predicted in the Times-Gazette last week the three men, Crane, Dale and Anderson, backed by the Citizens' League were chosen at the election on Monday with a big majority. The contest was an extremely bitter one, well fought and every available voter brought to the polls. Ninety percent of the registered voters came to the polls, there being 865 votes cast out of the 943 registered. The contest is over, let all factional differences be forgotten and every citizen get behind the new officials to the end that harmony may prevail and that Menlo Park may progress and advance as it should. The principal issue was a cry for a change in the personnel of the city government. The people have decisively spoken on the subject. It is believed that the new councilmen will make a clean sweep of every appointed office. Owing to the fact that new ordinances may have to be adopted it may take some time before the new appointees will take office. It is believed that W. H. Weeden will be the next mayor of the city, a position he formerly held.

The councilmen elect will assume their duties next Tuesday evening, when the ax will fall, but where no one knows. The trustees are keeping their own counsel. Rumors are flying thick and fast as to the lucky one to hold positions in the new regime. For city judge, there are mentioned, Jay Cooper, W. E. Monroe and Fred Becker; for chief of police, Frank Love; police officers, Phil Blanchard, C. Maloney and perhaps L. Murray; engineer, Mr. Armstrong of Stanford Park, who led the battle against the present administration in that locality. It is said that he is to work on a salary and to assist the management of the city government. George Whitworth, the able city attorney, will hold his position. For building inspector many are mentioned. The three trustees elect with W. H. Weeden, an incumbent, will dominate the new council and parcel all the commissions among its members. They will have the council in control for four years. With this combination working in harmony Menlo Park may look for a new deal, more progress and a steady advancement.

We congratulate Crane, Dale and Anderson on their success and pledge them our hearty support.

The following is the result of the contest:

Crane, 452; Dale, 445; Anderson, 433; Ellis, 353; Campbell, 310; Harcom 178; Glunz, 106; Walker, 74.

TWO PIONEERS SEEK AID FROM OLD AGE PENSION

By D. E. O'KEEFE

During the week the social welfare department of the courthouse received two applications for assistance under the aid for the aged law passed by the last legislature from two women over eighty years each who came across the plains in a covered wagon in 1849 as youngsters with their parents. They came in separate parties, both caravans remaining for some time at Sutter's Fort at Sacramento before the men folks of the parties struck out for the mines in El Dorado county, the mecca for all newcomers to California.

One of the women seeking aid is eighty-five years old. Vividly she remembers her father taking out vast sums of money in Rattle Snake Gulch. The miners were rough but kind and generous. She recalls, as a girl, the dance parties at the diggings and what joyous occasions they were. The old lady looks back reminiscently to those good old days of 1849, those days when gold was plentiful and men were men, and when the frontier of California bustled with life and animation.

The aged woman finds herself in the peculiar predicament. In the absence of a birth certificate she is unable to establish the date of her birth. There is no one to provide the usual affidavit as required by the department at Sacramento. The office here has a problem on its hands. How to solve it is causing view granting the motion of the defendant, the City of Menlo Park, to quash the proceedings. This ends the injunction suit brought by the property owners of Stanford Park to enjoin the council from awarding bid for street improvement in that locality. It is understood that the old council, which meets on Monday evening, will pass this duty to the new body. It is thought that the new council will refrain from awarding the contract and thus will end the prospect of having the street improvement proceed at Stanford Park, for a time at least.

the force much worry. She looks to be what she says she is, but this is a case when looks don't count. There must be an affidavit. The department is hoping to find some way out of the difficulty.

The other woman is able to establish her birth and will receive aid. Like her companion she remembers keenly the happenings of the days of forty-nine at the mines. Her father took up a claim at Jim Town and there took out large sums of money, but like most of the miners, did not save it. The money came easy and went in the same manner.

It is interesting and delightful to listen to the tales of those days of old by these women who as youngsters romped in the streets of those mining towns now deserted and which live in memory only. The stirring events of those colorful times of early California, so well depicted in song and story by such characters as Mark Twain and Bret Harte, will always hold a warm spot in the heart of every Californian.

It seems almost paradoxical that anyone coming to the state in 1849 should be in want in the evening of life when there was abundance of gold to be had. It was the time when California was opening her treasure vaults to the hardened pioneer who crossed the plains, suffering much hardships to reach the promised land of gold and plenty and to establish on the Pacific shores a commonwealth that would challenge the admiration of the world.

Unfortunate as those two cases are they are not without a lesson, an urge to the youth of today to acquire a habit of thrift so that when the shades of evening fall, want and hunger will not start in its midst. Youth is wonderful, its sway is but too brief. It should have its fling. However, some provisions ought to be made by every young man and woman for their declining years to tide them over that period of life when their earning capacity is forever gone.

The true philosopher looks out for the winter of his existence and acts accordingly. The busy little bee and the hard working ant teaches a lesson of thrift. They work all summer laying up a store so when the chilling blasts of winter come, they may live during that period. On the other hand the grasshopper and the idle cricket dance away the summer months at gay parties forgetting the approach of the cold season. As a result they perish when the frost and snows come. They did not provide when the opportunity was theirs.

It is well for the young man to follow the course of the ant and bee, ignoring the ways of the other two.

Arriving at last at the somber twilight of their lives these two octogenarians find themselves penniless, without relatives, without friends. They are seeking aid from a generous state and county to help keep body and soul together until the coming of that other covered wagon that is to convey them over the border to that other land where night shall fall not again, where they shall be re-united with the friends of their youth of the glorious days of California's golden era. Perhaps these old women are peering through the curtain of the future looking, longing, waiting for that re-union over there.

During the coming school vacation, Redwood City will be well represented on the trans-Atlantic lines. Among those who have decided to spend their vacation in Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Carroll D. Elephant Breaks Up Hindu Prayer

Bombay.—Several persons were trampled upon and seriously injured recently when a young male elephant ran amuck for half an hour at Allahabad during the Kumbh Mela religious festival.

Two million pilgrims were packed along the wayside reciting prayers while a procession including nine elephants was returning from the river bank with all the customary pagoda, try of gorgeous banners, musical bands, naked attendants, and the gold and silver palanquins borne on the shoulders of the men, generally associated with religious festivals here, when the young elephant, apparently peeved at the slow progress of the procession, made a sudden rush at a female elephant immediately in front and gored it savagely.

The suddenness of the attack resulted in the driver and passenger being flung off the attacked animal, which trumpeted shrilly with rage and pain. The crazed attacker then turned its attention to the other beasts, trumpeted, threw out its hind legs, and finally unseated its rider.

Father Sage Says:
Moving in circles isn't the way to get ahead, even though you may move in the very best circles.

In the belief that an elephant can be subdued in even its wildest mood if a camel bites its ear, some venture-some spirits drove a camel toward the beast, which in consequence dashed off and plunged at great speed into the crowd, scattering them right and left. Panic immediately followed, and men, women and children screamed and fought madly in their efforts to escape from the path of the infuriated animal.

Luckily, the courage and resource of Captain Niblett, a magistrate, and Mr. Cole, a police officer, saved what would undoubtedly have been a much worse disaster.

Captain Niblett procured two tame elephants and set out to capture the escaped beast, which was now racing rapidly toward the river, while Cole galloped ahead on horseback, warning the crowd.

The huge four-footed pachyderm plunged pell-mell through an encampment of pilgrims by the river bank and crashed through a number of low huts constructed of thatch and bamboo, which gave way before the monster like match boxes. Inside almost every hut fires were left burning, and in consequence the wretched dwellings quickly became a series of blazing bonfires.

Captain Niblett chased the mad elephant over four miles of territory before finally coming to grips. Then followed a struggle between the three elephants which lasted some time before the raving monster was finally subdued and returned to his trembling attendant at Allahabad.

Coaxing Cows' Appetite With Hawaiian Molasses

Report Another "Flying Dutchman"

Buenos Aires.—Another "mystery ship" of the seas, missing for 14 months, has again been sighted. Thirteen months ago the Danish training ship Kobenhavn, which vanished mysteriously in December of 1928, appeared like a bedraggled wraith in the middle of the South Atlantic ocean, heading toward the polar seas of Antarctica.

This is the weird news brought here by Philip Lindsay, a British naval aviator, the first man to reach civilization from the Tristan da Cunha island group since January of 1929.

The Tristan da Cunha is in the South Atlantic, just north of the extreme limit of floating ice, and about midway between Buenos Aires and Cape Town.

According to Lindsay, the Kobenhavn, like a specter, passed the Tristan da Cunha on January 21, 1929. Her mainmast was missing and her rigging was flying loose in the wind. The only recognizable feature of the ship was her black hull, around which a white band had been painted.

When last heard of the Kobenhavn sailed from La Plata, Argentina, for Australia, on December 14, 1928. Sixty naval cadets were aboard, including some of some of Denmark's most prominent families. Several staff officers of the Danish navy were also aboard.

RAIN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

It is raining as I write this—a gentle rain that sinks into the ground and disappears as it falls. Nothing else is so restful as a rain; nothing so quieting to the nerves. I should not like to live in a place where it does not rain regularly. I have just been reading an article in praise of the climate of California.

"Picture to yourself," it says, "what a difference is made in your habits, your moods, your whole adjustment to life, when you know that for at least four months of the year—June to October—no rain will fall."

I have the picture. Dust in the air, hillsides brown and sear; vegetation everywhere drying up excepting as some one stands with a hose in his hands and sprinkles the lawn and the flower beds. A hot sun beating down upon one and no hope of rain for four months to cool off the atmosphere; grass, and shrubs, and flowers burned brown and dead excepting where some faithful hand gives them regular attention! A dry wind blowing the yellow dust into one's eyes! It makes no appeal to me. I like variety; I like the soft mist against my face, I like to hear the drops beating upon the roof or against the window panes; I thoroughly enjoy rain, and some way, in spite of the absence of rubbers and rain coats and umbrellas, I seldom seem to get wet.

Nothing artificial can ever refresh the vegetable world as a good rain does. The air smells better, tastes better, and seems to penetrate more deeply into the lungs after a rain. I can work with more enthusiasm, with more concentration and with more energy during a rain. When the rain is falling outside it gives opportunity to finish the uncompleted task; to settle down to something that has been waiting for attention for days or weeks.

When I was a boy on the farm a rainy day was a period to be looked forward to. Before the hard work of farm life had fastened itself upon me, a rainy day was a play day. We cut all sorts of capers in the hay loft as the rain pattered down upon the roof above us; or we went fishing. It was thought that the fish would bite more ravenously upon a rainy day. It may have been, but anyway it was rare sport to sit upon the bank of the creek all huddled up and watch the corks on our fishing lines bobbing up and down.

I have always liked to read, and as I look back upon the years that have passed it seems to me that much of the reading that I have done since the time I was ten years old has been done while the rain was coming down outside and other tasks for the time being set aside.

No! I like sunshine and I take pleasure in clear weather, but I don't want to live where it doesn't rain. Absence of rain would take away half the pleasure of life.

Funeral Costs Too High, so Town Fixes Prices

Complaints were lodged that undertakers and funeral carriage owners were profiteering. The council then fixed a scale of prices with a penalty for violations.

If the Truth Were Always Told

Puts Filial Duty Before Career

Iola, Kan.—From a concert pianist with excellent prospects in Chicago, to operator of a drug store in a city of less than 10,000 population, is a long step, but a step which filial devotion prompted Lloyd N. Brown to take.

Five years ago Brown was an instructor in piano in a Chicago music institute. He had completed his study there and had been retained as an instructor. In addition to teaching, he filled concert engagements and on several occasions played with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

His prospects were bright and he was predicted he would soon be one of the outstanding figures in the musical world.

Just as Brown was making the most forward strides toward fame he received word from home that his father, Dr. H. A. Brown, veteran physician and druggist here, had suffered a stroke of paralysis and that Lloyd, the only son, was sorely needed at home.

As he saw it, only one road was open for him. Before him was success in the musical world that he loved; but not only success for himself, but for his wife, an accomplished violinist whom he met and married in Chicago.

He closed his piano, resigned his position with the college and forsook his career as a musician to hurry home to his parents and to enter the comparatively strange profession of a druggist.

But his heart is not in the drug business. He intends some day to return to his music. He has a standing offer to return to Chicago as an instructor.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as its tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to break off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genneve Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Style Has Lasted

In the days when capes were worn instead of coats, men frequently carried swords, hung at the left side, under the cape. The cape was held closed from left to right so that the right hand would be free to reach for the sword when necessary. When coats were substituted and swords were still lapped over the right side because men had become accustomed to it.

Hawaiian Forests

Hawaii is blessed with a considerable quantity of forest land, yet with the exception of one type of wood, koa or Hawaiian mahogany, the forest lands are of little value. The total acreage of woodlands is estimated at 1,000,000 acres, but it is largely in tropical forests with much mesquite, Ohia lehua, another type of tree, has considerable value as a protection for watersheds.—Washington Star.

Says Men Want Pals, Not Patients!

SHE was engaged! She was the happiest girl in the world. A round of teas and parties, a whirl of pleasure, and she began to wonder what was the matter. Too tired to go out—and he—was he becoming tired of her?

It was at this point that Miss Margaret Belden of Los Angeles woke up to the fact that something had to be done about it. "Men want pals, not patients," she writes. "I went right to my doctor. Do you know what he said? Rest—and Nujol!"

"With a prayer in my heart and Nujol in my medicine cabinet I began to fight back to being the healthy, robust, happy girl I had been before. Two months passed. No more tears—no more worrying, no more bad dreams. Today I beat him on the tennis court, and although he can out-swim me, I make him work doing it. It's good to be happy. It's good to be free, physically, and be able to share, any time, in sports or dancing or anything else with the one you love!"

Here's another one who has learned that the simplest and surest way to be well and full of good spirits is to clear the bodily poisons out of your system regularly. Not with powerful drugs, but normally, naturally, easily. Doctors and nurses recommend such a natural treatment as Nujol, because this crystal-clear liquid isn't a medicine at all! It can't harm even a little baby! It contains absolutely no drugs. It is simply internal lubrication that your body needs like any other machine. Good looks and good spirits—do they spell popularity? You know they do! Get a bottle of Nujol tonight in any drug store. Sold in sealed packages only—trademarked "Nujol." Insist on Nujol by name. It costs but a few cents—and it will make you feel like a million dollars.

WOODSIDE

The San Mateo County Firemen's Association held its monthly meeting at Woodside Tuesday night. About sixty members of the association were present although a larger number had been expected. The local firemen had gone to much pains to make the meeting a pleasant occasion. The business meeting was held at the Woodside Hall after which an adjournment was had to the Parent-Teacher Association headquarters in the school auditorium, where the tables were found already set for the feast. In addition to the members of the organization there were several guests from the fire departments of San Francisco.

cisco and Palo Alto. Speakers were called upon after the dinner and a pleasant surprise was the presentation by the Woodside department of a solid gold Fire Chief's badge to James F. Driscoll who has been the head of the local organization for the past year. This was offered as a token of the regard and affection felt for Chief Driscoll, not only by the fire department but by the community which he serves. Several of the San Francisco visitors were men who had worked with Driscoll when he was captain in the San Francisco department and they testified to the splendid record he had made and the high regard in which he was held.

Glee Club Songs At Kiwanis Meet

A quartet of members of the Stanford Glee Club furnished an hour of interesting and enjoyable entertainment, Wednesday, for the members of the Redwood City Kiwanis club. The quartet was composed of Ralph Wallace, George McKee, John Humeke and A. N. Culling. The singing of the young men was of a very high order and was greatly enjoyed by the Kiwanians. The chairman of the meeting on Wednesday was N. C. Cummings. A short talk on his life was given by Howard Wood, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and a recent addition to the club's roster. Henry

Witte told of the difficulties which have been met in securing a full enumeration for the census and asked for volunteers to assist in the gathering of the necessary information in the short time remaining. It was estimated by Secretary Wood of the local chamber, that between three and four thousand remain unlisted in Redwood City. His organization and the volunteers from the club will endeavor to secure a full listing of all remaining residents.

Miss Betty Moulthrop was hostess at a week-end party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Moulthrop, on Oak Knoll Drive. Her guests were Miss Frances Marwedel of San Francisco, Miss Gloria Grandi and Miss Betty Bright of Redwood City, Messrs. Walter Harder, Elgin Laib and Arthur Laib of San Francisco and Andrew Bright of Redwood City.
